HOSTED CONTENT

Integrated among Pharmacy Today's editorial content, our hosted content is the space to develop a relevant and interesting conversation with our readers, launch new products, or remind customers of your point of difference in the market.

Treated as an article rather than an advertisement space, the content is mobile and tablet-friendly, searchable and sharable through social media. This content also benefits from our related-links feature, click through, to an internal or external website and is saved in our archives. Finally, this is available to everyone as viewers don't need to log in to read your content.

The below spaces are the specs for the synopsis or preview on the Pharmacy Today home page.

This will click through to a full web page containing your content.
